

NOTE: The NEH Summer Scholar Assignment for Summer 2019 will be similar to this one.

NEH SUMMER SCHOLAR ASSIGNMENT -- Due Tuesday, July 11, 2017

Thanks for a great week of learning! You will submit two assignments to the Tanner Humanities Center at the University of Utah. The first part of the assignment explains how you will help your students learn using the content or pedagogy you studied at Manifest Destiny Reconsidered: The Utah Experience. The second part of the assignment is an essay that will help us understand how your teaching practice will change as a result of your participation in our workshop. You also will complete an online evaluation for the NEH.

Part 1 – Complete Lesson Outline Form

As you plan for the 2017-2018 school year, how will you incorporate content or strategies from this workshop in your own classroom? Give us a snapshot of your thinking for a unit or lesson plan. Complete a short form outlining the ways you will engage your students with the themes of Manifest Destiny we explored throughout the workshop. You will fill out fields that will help us understand the direction of your future lesson plan or unit in terms of student knowledge and understanding, reasoning, skills, and products. Include adaptations of the content or strategies you will make for your own classroom. Access the lesson outline form here: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/5BQBJ7K>.

Part 2 – Write Reflective Essay

Please respond to the two questions below in a one page reflective summary of your workshop experience. Email this Word document or PDF to Tanner Humanities Center Associate Director Beth James at beth.james@utah.edu.

Please include your name, grade level/subject(s) you teach, plus any other information you feel would help paint a vivid narrative of your experience.

- How has this week changed how you think about western history and how you will teach it in your classroom?
- How will you apply what you have learned this week?

Part 3 – Online evaluation for the National Endowment for the Humanities

Access the evaluation here: <https://securegrants.neh.gov/education/participants/evaluation/login.aspx>. Enter your name and then scroll to select Manifest Destiny Reconsidered: The Utah Experience. Please be sure to choose the correct workshop.
